Volume 33

Five hundred years ago, Christopher Columbus sailed west in search of elusive Asian treasures. He instead launched a new era in history. Yet what we today recognize as an astounding success, Columbus considered a failure. We might all remember that both our trials and victories will bring us toward unexpected fortunes.

For one hundred and twenty-five years now, the members of Shrewsbury High School have searched for their destinations. As they looked ahead, the students of the 1830 Schoolhouse could never have imagined our school today. However, each of them was in search of his own New World.

We are each in search of treasures. We drift, speed and careen toward our goals. We will use our high school years as vehicles, some driven towards higher education, others speeding towards a career. Our ultimate destination is yet unknown. We are left to wonder, live, and enjoy our journeys, always striving for our personal gold.

Riding her bike, Kristin Paquette travels off into the unknown.

In Search of ... The Eternal Summer

It's 12:01 on a Monday afternoon. I just woke up about an hour ago, and managed to struggle down to the beach. The sun beats down on the sand, and the odor of Coppertone pervades my nostrils. A radio somewhere on the beach plays "Unbelievable" by E.M.F. Suddenly there is a harsh, shrill ringing in my ears jolting me from my reverie! I've slept through my 5th period math class and lunch is still 42 minutes away.

Oh, to be back to those summer days. Whether it be work, vacations, or just hanging around, the summer is something special. Days are warmer, curfews are later, and fun is our main occupation. Unfortunately, September seems to sneak up on us too fast and classes are with again. But don't worry, for the time being at least, school is only 180 days.

Friends Nicole Baker, Jeanine Merchant and Carrie Pruitt pose for a shot in those famous booths at Hampton Beach.

We Made It... The Weekend

After a long week of classes, the weekend arrives and we are liberated.

We are free to attend football, basketball, or hockey games; or to attend early morning track meets; or to simply "hang out."

"Hanging out" is probably the most popular weekend activity. Whether we meet at the infamous Dean Park, the South Street turnaround, or in the comfort of a fellow classmate's home- everyone enjoys kicking back and relaxing with a group of friends. At these informal gatherings, we can catch up on scores from games and meets, school gossip, and anything else which comes to mind.

Unfortunately, Sunday night signals crash homework time and another long week before the 1:58 bell rings again on Friday.

The Key to tomorrow lies behind the doors of yesterday. We are forever growing, changing, failing, succeeding, and learning to cope.

It is in our high school years that we begin to determine what it is we want to take with us, what should stay the same, what should change, and what should be left behind.

There are some things that never change. This is good to know and hold onto as we head out on our own separate paths.

There are friendships we know are forever, life long loves for small and large furry animals, facial expressions our parents swear we were born with and most likely will die with. These are the memories that will continue to mold our tomorrows, our dreams, our successes.

As a class we've come a long way. It's good to know this is just the beginning.

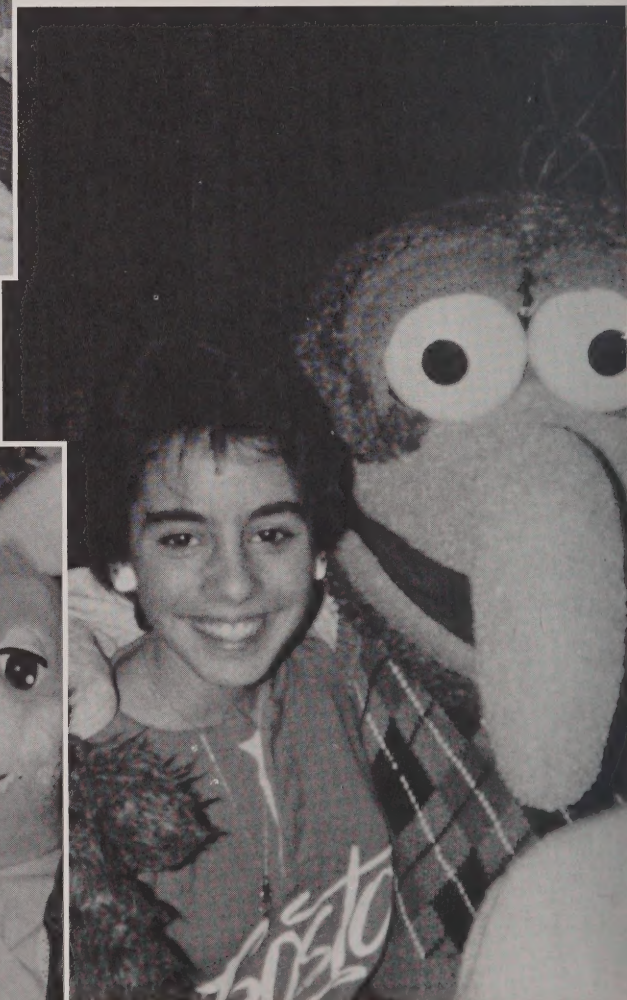

Past...Present...

Hidden Gold: Friends

"A friend is someone who comes in when the whole world has gone out."

There are possibly as many definitions of the word friend as there are people. A friend may be someone with whom you share your opinions and common interests. Or a friend may be someone who offers different points of view and broadens your perspective. A friend may be someone with whom you spend time, or simply someone whose influence you appreciate. Ultimately, it may not matter what friendship's exact definition is. Friendship becomes an evolving being, ideally balanced and evenly sculpted. It incorporates trust and community; it gives to each friend a security - an abiding calm. Friendship becomes more than its partners. It becomes a mutual presence whose best quality is that certain glow which defies definition.

Our first formal dance! What an experience! On March 17, 1990 our sophomore class came together for the fourth annual semi-formal.

Saturday morning, members of the Class of '92 met in the cafeteria to transform it into an underwater ballroom, using blue, green, and silver crepe-paper as their magic wands. Our theme song, "After All", by Peter Cetera and Cher, was played by our D.J. for the evening, the Conte Brothers. Couples and friends danced till the stroke of midnight, after which the parties began.

Junior Class Play:

Joe Grillo had the leading role as David, a young boy, who is trying to be an actor while juggling three women in his life: the naive and demure Wanda, the lovely and flirtatious Miss B, and the experienced and voluptuous Angela. His antics bring him into conflict with his boss, his parents, and the director of the theatre in which he is to work.

The cast and crew spent hour after hour rehearsing, laughing, and becoming best friends. Special moments to remember are when Ian Liston got slammed behind the door, Jeff Samanen had a glue fetish, Marianna LaCanfora's last minute jitters, and Niles Reshamwala stripping down to his BVD's. Support talk sessions and smiles were the key to a great class play.

An Enchanted Evening

Formal gowns and tuxedos were the order of the evening Saturday, May 11 when the class of 1992 transformed the gymnasium into an "Enchanted Forest" for the annual Junior Prom. The music was provided by the DJ, Gary Scott, and the juniors and their dates danced the night away to their favorite tunes, including the mood-setting Prom song, "Open Arms", by Journey.

Kristen Paquette and Mr. Perrault had spent endless hours erecting a waterfall and a stream with the help of someclass members. Other Class of '92 students helped Mr. Rose and the class advisers drape the crepe paper, balloons, backdrop, lights, and the disco ball all day during and after school on Friday. Live goldfish were added to the stream and a bridge was constructed over the water to add the finishing touches.

The evening turned out to be magical. As we crossed over the bridge we entered a world filled with mystery and enchantment. It was definitely an evening to remember.

In Dedication...

The 1992 Yearbook is dedicated to Mrs. Ellen Meyers for her diligent effort in supporting the students and organizing the events of Shrewsbury High School. Mrs. Meyers has taught in the Shrewsbury Public School System for nine years. For the first five years she was involved in the Off-Campus Alternative Studies Program for students with special needs. Possessing a Bachelor's Degree in elementary and special education from Case Western Reserve University, and a Master's Degree in educational leadership and administration from Worcester State College, she is well-trained in this area.

Presently, Mrs. Meyers assumes the role of Administrative Coordinator at the high school. This position entails countless duties from preparing the Master Calendar to arranging non-academic school activities such as Field Day. She is also in charge of freshmen discipline and attendance while being familiar with upper-classmen by being an adviser to the Class of 1992.

Yet the true Mrs. Meyers is so much more. She is in fact the spirit that inspires selflessness. She is the gentle nudge which silently leads us forward. She embodies the essence of a leader, a constant and encouraging presence so easily identifiable by all of those around her. She has become much more than an adviser: she is our confidant; she is the warmth which surrounds us in our travels.

Below: Kadia Welch and Mrs. Meyers have a lively discussion..

The History Of

In September of 1987, along with Dr. Ray Peterson, our class first entered Shrewsbury High School. We were welcomed amidst the Bicentennial Celebration of the Constitution; consequently, our first impression of the school was somewhat glamorous. Headed by Mrs. Amy O'Leary, Constitution Week offered an opportunity for students to become immediately involved in the school community. Unfortunately, many of us had a difficult time interpreting the intricacies of the Student Hand

Book, never mind the Constitution. Nevertheless, a select few students emerged to lead us through our first year: Joe Birbiglia, Julie Durbano, Joe Grillo, Brad Nanigian, and Heather Schofield, members of the 1987 Student Council. Our sense of organization was further increased by our separation into teams. Our class was divided into three colors: red, white, and blue. Each team adopted its own identity, as evidenced by the separate trips which each team took. 8 Red journeyed to Quebec; 8 Blue explored New York, and 8 White toughed it out at Camp Farley on Cape Cod. Weeks of frantically selling

In September of 1988 our class officially became known as The Class of 1992. Gone were the teams, the baby jokes, and also a good number of our friends who had chosen the private school route. What remained was the beginning of a true class. Our journey to unity began with the election of our class officers: our President was Angie Orizzi, Vice-President Jenna Piskadlo, Secretary Christie Hodgen, and Treasurer Jen Chu. Our advisers were Mrs. Lorraine Tegan, Mr. George Cote, Mrs. Gloria Van Osdol, and Mr. Charles Gordon. Officers and advisers worked together to invent a truly successful fundraiser. Soon, most of the class was selling boxed candy. Some of us were helped along by our sales pitch, as we all underwent Freshman Speech with Mrs. Kathleen Viscardi. We became quite convincing little salespeople, and almost orated as well as Jimmy Swaggart, who was undergoing his own personal scandal. The media also focussed on such important events as Oprah Winfrey's diet; Oprah made big news when she slimmed to a size 10.

Also in entertainment, rap of course was in, as was Nintendo and Batman. In sports, the 49'ers faced the Bengals in the Superbowl, and candy to raise funds paid off, and we all did have a good time. This first financial endeavor awakened us to the responsibilities of the adult world, as did October 19, 1987, or Black Monday. The Dow Jones plunged 508.32 points, and we sampled the first signs of the impending recession. Nevertheless, our spirits remained high.

We fumbled through our first year, which apparently ended with a significant celebration. The 20th anniversary musical jubilee reunited past performers and performances from the musicals from 1967 to the present. The music department, as well as the class, turned a new page.

The Class of 1992

Carl Lewis stole the gold medal in the '88 Olympics. Other athletic news included the retirement of Shrewsbury's own legend - Mr. Michael Klemenich. Our new A.D. and friend was Mr. Gordon Warren. But, perhaps, the highlight of all sports activity was Field Day. Our class exhibited spirit and enthusiasm as we held the lead in the day's events. Expecting a guaranteed victory, we were instead disqualified when Dave Lemay participated in more than one event, which was taboo. Sloughing off this disappointment, our class moved onwards. We created our own field day, which aimed to encourage class spirit and unity. We all travelled to Dean Park where we picnicked, raced, and laughed. As we posed for a group photo, Mr. Largess declared the event "Jack Perry Day." Here began the first of a long line of spirit days for freshman. At such a young age, our class had already left its legacy. We ended our year by electing our class officers.

In September of 1989 we became sophomores- "wise fools." Perhaps this inspired the administration to assign two teachers to every homeroom, and to determine that we would remain in this homeroom, with these teachers, for the next three years. It was also determined that the attendance office should be secured by surrounding it by a jail-like enclosure. Obviously the attendance policy was to be strictly enforced.

We were all required to take Health Class where most of us would learn CPR by practicing on those foul half-mannequins supplied by Mrs. Degon, who would become one of our advisers. We were determined to win at field day that year, and we certainly appeared to dominate; however, victory was not to be ours, as the seniors manipulated the score board causing us to finish in third place. Perhaps we should have filed a complaint.

On a more educational level, we celebrated the 200th Anniversary of the Bill of Rights, and many of us wrote essays, hoping to win a scholarship. Two important national figures emerged that year - George Bush, the 41st President of the United States, and Donald Trump who redefined "filthy rich." Red M & M's made a comeback as many international crises came to the forefront. In China, students of Beijing University protested for democracy in what would become a massacre at Tiananmen Square.

The Exxon Valdez spilled 11 million gallons of oil creating an ecological disaster and placing Captain Joe Hazelwood at the top of the most hated list. Communism began to disintegrate and the Berlin Wall finally was taken down, and the world saw a unified Germany at last.

Joe Montana took his 49'ers to their second consecutive Superbowl win, while many of us took Mr. Sullivan's Driver Education Class in what would be the first step towards our license. Our corridors were alive with "The Sound of Music", and our cafeteria took on the "Under the Sea" atmosphere, including fish plastered murals and a ceiling filled with balloons, as we prepared for our first high school dance - the Sophomore Semiformal. We danced to the music of Peter Cetera and Cher's "After All." Unfortunately, we were soon saddened to hear of the death of our childhood hero and mentor, Jim Henson. But, with summer upon us, we took to the beaches and the movie theaters - being sure to see "Pretty Woman" and "The Little Mermaid."

Our Junior year was ushered in by such summer blockbusters as "Flatliners" and "Dick Tracy." Too bad none of these were on our summer reading lists! No sooner had we returned than we were tested on our summer reading in our American Studies/English class. We had to get used to having an English and United States History double period. As usual, one of the first things our class officers did was send us out selling candy again. Now the boxes cost $5.00, and some of us had forgotten Mrs. V's speech instructions. We were crushed in the Junior-Senior Powderpuff football game 38-2. However, the highlight of the Fall was our junior class play "Enter Laughing." We held a dinner theatre in the cafeteria where many of us served as waiters and waitresses. Joe Grillo, Carra Wilkes, Kam Capoccia, and Jeff Samanen kept the audience laughing, while backstage Kate Hale and Christie Hodgen got the cast dressed and made-up.

We knew we were juniors when our class rings arrived. Rubies, emeralds, amethysts, and even some diamonds appeared on our ring fingers produced by the Jostens Ring Company.

Junior year saw Dr. Steven Mills leave his post as Activities Coordinator in order to fill in as Pupil Personnel Director; he was replaced by Mrs. Ellen Meyers, who also climbed aboard as one of our class advisers. We saw the Tutoring Room #312 dedicated to Mr. Tony Manzello who had inaugurated the idea of peer tutoring, and who had passed away that summer. Waldo hit the bookstores and quickly became a birthday gift sensation. Pee-Wee Herman, yet another one of our heroes, fell from grace when news of his cinema past-time came to light. William Weld replaced Michael Dukakis as governor, and recycling became a full-scale obsession. The New York Giants replaced the 49'ers and took on the Buffalo Bills in Superbowl XXV, beating the Bills 29-19.

However, the Superbowl was almost passed over in light of the War in the Gulf which began on January 16th. Saddam Hussein and CNN's scud stud Arthur Kent became reknown. The Town of Shrewsbury saw many of their young men and women serving in the Gulf, and all were greatly relieved when this was over, including Superintendent John Collins, whose son Pat had served there.

Many of us were involved in the annual musical, 42nd Street, and some of us began the "college search" in March, traveling to Boston to seek information. At this point we didn't know the true meaning of the word "stressed." As April arrived we were ready to transform our gym into an Enchanted Forest complete with a mythical castle and a working waterfall for our Junior Prom. "Open Arms" by Journey was the song of the evening. The Prom King and Queen were Tyge Woodall and Alison Sposato. Our junior year closed as the box office sellouts "Home Alone," "Robin Hood," and "12: The Judgment Day" appeared at the movies.

WE HAD ARRIVED! Seniors! Expecting an entire year of carefree bliss, many of us were sadly disappointed as we abruptly discovered the meaning of stress. We were confronted with the college application process, which also included SATS, Achievement Tests, and Financial Aid Forms, and many of us got to know our guidance counselors very well. This chaos was compounded by the evaluation of the school by the Accreditation Team. Would we pass? The evaluators found the school to be in good shape- we would receive accreditation. Academic endeavors included the newly instituted SHS

Starquest. Commander Pottle stirred spaceflight interest throughout the community with his mission simulator. Others of us enrolled in Mr. Mastrorio's Bioethics class, while some dared to enroll in the Advanced Placement classes. All of us were forced to take the Massachusetts State Assessment Tests, which proved to be particularly unnerving as the test challenged us with questions such as: "Have you ever lost your appetite for a food after it has made you ill?" We knew we couldn't let Wachusett or Marlborough win this one. A few of us discovered the true meaning of the word "deadlines" as we worked "in search of" the completion of the '92 Colonial.

On the social scene, our class welcomed a number of foreign exchange students: Julio Bereira, Paolo Pitton, Dragana Bolcic, and Claudia Emmanuel. Class activities were to consist of numerous attempted fundraisers - perhaps we were burned out after all the previous years selling candy, and social events. Our class officers, President Jen Chu, Vice-President John Bergeron, Secretary Christie Hodgen, Treasure Karli Milott, and Class Marshall Kam Capoccia were guided by our advisers Mrs. Lorraine Tegan, Mrs. Ellen Meyers, Mr. George Cote, and Mrs. Patricia Degan. We worked with our Student Council members, Julie Durbano, Liz Carlstrom, Heather Schofield, Kate McCarthy, Carra Wilkes, and Joe Grillo to schedule and organize many successful events. Seniors were especially active in this year's Homecoming and Field Day. As seniors we felt should have been able to win. Setting out to establish senior rule, a large group of seniors decorated the senior hall with our class color - orange. Fighting regulations, we also decorated other hallways with orange. Senior cheer spread everywhere. However, victory on the playing field eluded us for the fifth time, as we placed third in the overall competition.

Perhaps, if we challenged the juniors to a friendly game of Powderpuff Football, we would be victorious. We finally won 2-0 on a safety! Later in the school year, we all watched the Redskins defeat Buffalo.

watched in awe as the Soviet Union, along with the Cold War, dissolved. Here was a time when both our own futures and those of people worldwide took on a questionable but exciting nature. The weeks of February 10-23rd saw us glued to the T.V., watching the U.S.A. athletes in search of gold at the Winter Olympics in Albertville, France. Live entertainment on our own stage was provided by the musical "Bye Bye Birdie," starring senior Matt Leonard as Birdie.

Spring was upon us with all the events for which we had been waiting. We spent our time between frantic organization and mounting excitement as we worked planning our senior week's activities. On May 27th, senior parents held a picnic at SAC Park for us. The Royal Plaza Hotel in Marlborough was the site of our Senior Prom on May 29th. June 2nd, Commemoration, marked our final time on stage in our auditorium. The next night, we joined the faculty for dinner and dancing at the Knights of Columbus Hall, and Thursday, June 4th, 1992, we crossed the stage at Mechanics Hall to receive the diplomas we had worked so hard over the past five years to earn. That night we became graduates of the 125th Class of Shrewsbury High School, and left the stage in search of whatever our futures hold.

This was the Bills' second consecutive Super Bowl loss.
 On the national level both the Clarence Thomas hearings and the William Kennedy Smith trial cluttered the airways with controversy. On a more positive note, all the hostages were finally freed by Lebanon, and a greater sense of peace spread worldwide. The country

We came back from summer vacation to find flowers planted, walls re-painted, and floors polished to an extra shine. The New England Association of Schools and Colleges was coming to evaluate SHS from September 29 to October 2. Their purpose was to decide if the High School would be awarded accreditation. The school was bustling with preparations, because being accredited was of the utmost importance. While walking down the halls those three days, students could see many parents and members of the community. Along with certain staff members and pupils, they were to meet with the accreditation committee to discuss the school. It was in these meetings that problem areas with recommended improvements were made, and the school was praised for its strong points. When the evaluating team had gathered as much information as time allowed, they sent their observations and comments to the Association, who were then to decide if the school would, in fact, be accredited.

Various people have likened this whole accreditation process to a physical which is taken every ten years. If, by the Association's standards, the school is unhealthy (there are certain symptomatic problems), the school is placed on probation. During this two- to five-year period of probation, this school may be refused accreditation if it does not improve. In the spring of 1992, the Association announced its decision to accredit Shrewsbury High.

One tremendous asset to our curriculum is the Educational Television Studio. E.T.S. provides students with the opportunity to participate in television production, allowing them to create their own "pieces." Production incorporates not only the usage of specialized equipment, but also involves the development of appealing topics, intense scriptwriting, and the arrangement of interviews with contacts related to their subject area. These processes entail vast commitments of time and energy.

A quotation that stares at all E.T.S. students high above on the wall is, "We are asked to record moments in time that are unrepeatable... Preparation is the key to producing a perfect piece."

Beam me up, Pottle!

After receiving the Tapestry Award, Mr. Pottle was able to commence with the building of his own SHS Starquest Aerospace Mission Simulator. Toyota's Tapestry Award recognized 21 award-winning projects from a national pool of 800 proposals. Having received such honors as NASA's Teacher-in-Space State Semifinalist in 1985, the USDE's Christa McAuliffe Fellowship in 1988, and the Challenger Seven Fellowship in 1990, Mr. Pottle's newest invention was sure to be an acclaimed contribution.

One report cites, "The simulator includes a cockpit; cargo and experiment bays; sleeping, food preparation, and toilet facilities; an astronomical observatory; communication devices; and an interactive videodisc with aerospace-imaging equipment. A commander, pilot, co-pilot, communications officer, and mission specialists are on board."

"Among other things, the mission simulator and ground crews cooperatively simulate a vehicle launch and landing, calculations and log-keeping, environmental testing, star charting and astronomical photography. They also prepare and consume space foods, perform physiological monitoring, and tend hydroponically-grown plants."

Right: The Little Colonials, along with the ECE students, take time out to pose for a picture on Hat Day. Far right: This little Colonial is hard at work with Sarah Head looking on intently.

There is one classroom at SHS where the students become the teachers. Room 305 has been invaded by the "little Colonials", and their presence is the logical reason for the swingset in the courtyard. The preschool program is a unique opportunity for students who wish to become teachers or who love children to share their talents. Students taking Child Development learn how young children think and grow, and how they can react positively with them. As student aides, they assist the teacher, Mrs. Sarah Monica, and set up pre-planned lessons. The Early Childhood Education students take their role one step further. ECE students actually are given a theme and room area, and are able to plan the lessons. The lessons are evaluated by both Mrs. Tebetts and Mrs. Monica beforehand and then revised or accepted. Then they're off to the preschool to let the children decide the success or failure of their lessons. The program is wonderful for both the children and the students, who learn from each other.

Seeking the Past

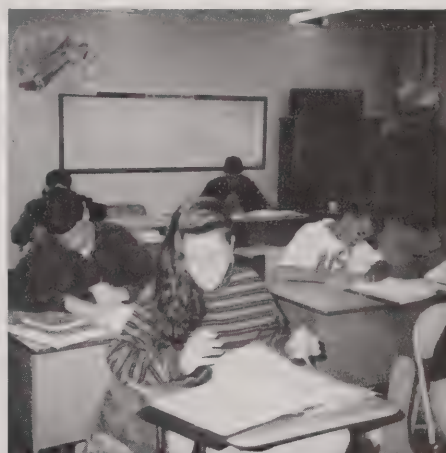

Surrounding: Strike a pose, Mr. Cormier!
Right: Leigh Burwick concentrates intensely on Mr. Cormier's assignment.

A new teacher this year is Mr. Robert Cormier who is teaching World Civilizations. He is often seen walking at a fast pace through the halls, but is always willing to stop and chat with a student. Mr. Cormier may be remembered by some students who worked with him in Mr. Mulcahy's Community Studies classes. He is always very prepared and thorough when presenting a topic. He is a member of the Shrewsbury Historical Society and has done extensive research on the origin of the town. Mr. Cormier has even gone so far as to write a book on the history of Shrewsbury. All of his information is made accessible to students, providing great opportunities for class projects, or just for curiosity's sake! When asked for information about the earliest Shrewsbury high school, he immediately made an elaborate report even though he knew we would only be using it for reference. The following is an excerpt from that text to show Mr. Cormier's skill as a storyteller and completeness as a historian:

Shrewsbury's old brick center school is very early. It would have been more typical for the changes represented in the 1831 building, to appear around 1838-40. Shrewsbury is imitating somebody, but the 1831 building is probably the earliest surviving example of its type in Worcester County. Often such construction meant merging a couple central districts and that may or may not have happened in Shrewsbury.

Shrewsbury's leaders had to be planning it for a couple years: that would bring their thinking back to around 1829. Mr.

Cormier is very enthusiastic and is presently working on a huge undertaking with members of the National Honor Society to restore the Mountain View Cemetery. "I have learned a lot working with Mr. Cormier. We've accomplished a great deal under his leadership," says Kate Hale of the Class of '92. No doubt Mr. Cormier will be an active member of our school as well as a valuable resource for many years to come.

The physical education department first initiated "Project Adventure" into the curriculum in 1974. It was later disassembled due to vandalism. Since that time, Project Adventure has grown popular throughout the United States as a noncompetitive alternative physical education. It was reinstated here two years ago and has proven to be successful. It consists of many poles and cables set up near the tennis courts, and it is used daily by gym classes of 11-20 students. The goal of the course is to build trust among students while they explore an exciting form of non-traditional education.

Project Adventure is currently under the supervision of Mrs. Pam Krause. "I like to see kids having fun in gym class. I think P.A. is so popular because it is an enjoyable part of any school day." Students who have taken the course more than once say it is never a bore. Angie Orrizzi of the Class of '92 comments, "There were so many new things to try the second time. I even conquered some fears I had, like walking on that shaky cable!" Trust falls, rope swings, blind walks, poisonous spider webs, and dragon pits are all to be faced in Project Adventure, but don't worry, most people get out alive!

Below: The Spider's Web is only one of the "deadly" obstacles PA students must face.

The SHS pottery and sculpture class was offered this past year by art director Mr. Deignan. This unique program has received an overwhelming and enthusiastic response by interested students. The course involves a study of contemporary sculptors and is a hands on experimentation with free-form artwork. As one of their projects, the students presented hand-sculptured Christmas ornaments for decoration in the special education classrooms. This and most other projects constructed in the class, such as beaded jewelry and clay picture frames, utilize recyclable materials and scraps of all sorts to create original artwork.

"Fundamentals of Music" is a great new class taught by Mr. Feldheimer. It gives students who are interested in pursuing music as a career, or who are simply interested in understanding it better, a chance to get a stronger background in the subject. The main focus is on the reading and writing of music. Elementary piano skills are taught and students learn to develop "ear-training" skills. "It is a lot different from your basic math and English. I was so glad to see so many students interested. There is a lot of talent in this school," says

Mr. Feldheimer.

Joe Grillo of the Class of '92 comments, "Mr. F. is great! I have really learned to appreciate the work of musicians. It is definitely a worthwhile class." While interpreting and studying music is no easy task, the students say that they have come a long way and recommend the class to any aspiring musician.

Sleep is probably the most valuable commodity to high school students. Do teachers realize that the minimum requirement recommended by the surgeon general is eight hours?! Do teachers know how illnesses are contracted? The job of an SHS student definitely is not easy. The average schedule is composed of several daily events, including school, work or sport or activity, homework, and finally, (sometimes) sleep. This schedule is not only vigorous and demanding, but also extremely tedious after ten months. It's really frightening that someone could conceive of taking away our summer vacation. Don't they realize that this recovery time is necessary for an overworked, unpaid, full-time student?

Two weeks for vacation in December this year - excellent! The only good thing about the budget cuts is the inability to heat the school during the winter months (i.e. more sleep time). Let's be thankful they didn't make us freeze our buns (although that may help to keep us awake after a late night of studying). "If you're too tired just don't do it," says Dulcie Garvey as she gives some defeatist advice to super-stressed Christie Hodgen.

So if you find yourself dozing off at a critical point in Mr. Bulger's calculus class or absent-mindedly mixing toxic chemicals in Mrs. Schroeder's chemistry lab, stop and think: is it worth it? Then go lie down in Mrs. DeFalco's office.

Top: Even perky teachers like Mrs. Black are not immune to staying up late to finish work; Middle: Jason Douglas takes this opportunity to relax in an old sofa chair; Far left: Diana Dunn simply can't resist falling asleep; Left: This computer project is the last thing that Bill Lepiesza wants to be working on.

Where is Ghana???

Thanks to the efforts of Dr. Pauline Courchesne, director of foreign language, French and Spanish students of SHS were given the opportunity to participate in an exciting new international pen pal correspondence. The 172 students involved were able to choose either a boy or a girl from one of many countries to whom they would write on a regular basis. Many students opted to practice their foreign language skills by writing in the language that they study. Others were interested in the culture and customs of other countries such as Russia and England. For example, Elinor Fukuda hopes to make a new friend in Argentina while Christie Hodgen is hoping her Spanish friend can decipher her letter!

This new program has enhanced the foreign language department and provided students with first-hand information about different civilizations in the world. "Kids in other countries think that we really have it made in the United States. Some of them are so poor and are not given the opportunities we have," said Christa Lamothe. Many students became close friends with their pen pals and hope to visit them someday. As for now, Dr. Courchesne is hoping that even more students will take an interest in the program and have the opportunity to explore these new horizons. countries involved are France, Belgium, Mexico, Spain, Ireland, Japan, Korea, Italy, Australia, Scotland, England, Sweden, Norway, Argentina, New Zealand, Ghana, Philippines, India, Colombia, Switzerland, Russia, and Germany.

How Can I Help?

Below: Gopi Patel is trying to keep the show running smoothly at the SOS picnic.

The Student Outreach Service class is an offspring of an afterschool drug and alcohol training program begun nine years ago. Since then, the focus has changed to an educational program which explores and discusses the problems facing teenagers today. Students are trained in areas of non-judgmental listening and communication skills. Students in the program serve as guides to new students and peer listeners. The class is supplemented with annual workshops and conferences which assess specific student concerns. SOS is very community-oriented and has organized such activities as the Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for the poor.

Mrs. Black, Mrs. Bartelson, and Mrs. McCullough all hold classes two days per week. "The students are all very different but have become close as a group and have learned to respect one another," says Mrs. Black. Amy Monopoli of the Class of '93 describes the class as "something to really look forward to in my school day."

Active members of SOS such as Becky Mayrand, Kadia Welch, and Karli Milott have worked many hours on projects such as the Hat and Mitten Drive and the Sock Drive. "We really have faith in what we are doing. SOS helps a lot of people and this is very rewarding," says Karli. The organization is constantly growing and will be an integral part of SHS curriculum for many students in the years to come.

Words Of Wisdom

In Search Of The Future...

Wait. What if I messed up and they throw all my beautiful forms away? What if the mailman lost them? What if I don't really exist? What if I don't get into ANY COLLEGE? ouch. We all want to get into that mystery college in the sky, but none of us really expect to be accepted. You'd think that with all those forms and all those frosted dotted lines...

So you've finally written your name (last name first, of course) for the final time on that familiar dotted line. Every perforated line in the application has been torn, every form filled out, every teacher recommendation recommended, every essay essayed, every transcript has been thoroughly transcribed. You'll sign that one last dotted line that you missed, and off they go, like application sheep getting lost in that inconceivable herd of fluffy hopefuls. Now...

Wait. Well heck. Maybe college just isn't for me anyway. I mean, maybe some people just aren't meant to go. Right? Yup, that's it. Maybe I'll join the Army or the Marines. I hear they're looking for a few good men.

Of course, the majority of the people who apply get into college. The worrying just makes it all seem more real and so much better. No, the process isn't fun or good, and it just might be worth it, but it must be better than high school, right? Ha, ha. Keep signing those dotted lines.

Two organizations whose goal it is to help others are Student Outreach Services and the Junior Red Cross. These two clubs demonstrate a humanitarian interest by assisting others in the school and in the community. The Junior Red Cross members have been out visiting patients in the Notre Dame Nursing Home, as well as to the Boston House, a facility which cares for victims of multiple sclerosis. They also started an adopt-a-grandparent program this year.

The Student Outreach Service, better known as SOS, is known throughout the community for the Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets prepared for the needy. SOS focuses also on helping children of all ages through their peer counseling program, the first-grade drug awareness program, the fourth-grade non-smoking chat at the SOS summer picnic

This year the National Art Honor Society created a 1992 Colonial Calendar composed of their sketches of familiar Shrewsbury landmarks. This calendar was to be used as a fund raiser for their trip to Washington DC and the National Museum of Art. The calendar was a sell out. Senior Profiles decorated the corridor by the Media Center. Each senior artist was pictured and his/her work displayed for all to appreciate. Another great idea !

These were just a few of the blood curdling cries that could be heard throughout the halls proving that the National Honor and National Art Honor Societies' Haunted House was a terrifying success. These two organizations combined their talents to work on the annual Halloween Party for community youngsters.

Shrewsbury's chapter of the National Honor Society is composed of student's who are recognized for their community involvement, including the walk for the homeless, caroling at local nursing homes, and sending greetings to local elderly. Membership is based on one's scholarship, character, leadership, and service.

HOW DO STUDENTS ...

Who says students can't make a difference? Political Action Group, Amnesty International, Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD), and Kids Involved in Today's Environmental Solutions (KITES) are determined to make a difference.

The Political Action Group's purpose is to make students more aware of state, local, and national affairs. Last year they were involved in organizing a Peace in the Gulf Week program, which involved having a series of speakers who addressed the implications of the War. This year the group was instrumental in bringing to the attention of the student's the Spag's Proposal for purchasing 19.5 acres of land on Maple Avenue in exchange for 1.3 acres on Harrington Avenue. This forum was aired over the ETS Channel.

MAKE A DIFFERENCE?

Amnesty International is a worldwide organization which is non-political and fights for Human Rights. The SHS chapter of Amnesty meets every Tuesday after school to write letters for the release of political prisoners. Each year our chapter holds a benefit concert to raise funds for Amnesty International. This year's concert featured the bands Frozen Culture, F.O.E., Crown of Thorns, and Ant Farm.

Students Against Drunk Driving is a national organization dedicated to preventing drinking and driving. S.A.D.D. features programs before proms and holidays to educate students to their responsibility when driving. Kids Involved In the Environment (KITES) is responsible for recycling paper and sponsoring a community-wide recycling effort.

There are three organizations at SHS that are bound and determined to get their point across: Student Council, Student Advisory Committee and National Forensic League(NFL). The Student Council and S.AC. work with the administration to meet student's needs. NFL voices their opinion through speech. This club competes locally and sometimes nationally.

Each year the Student Council takes on approximately thirty members. These students work together on various community and in-school activities like dances and fund raisers. This years activities included working the Rotary Club's annual pancake breakfast, running the homecoming dance, attending the Glavin Center Christmas party, and running the children's Halloween party in conjunction with the National Honor Society. The council sends delegates to each of the Massachusetts conferences held at different schools and hotels around the state.

The Student Advisory Committee is a group that meets each week to discuss certain issues of both student and faculty concern within the school. The students elected to the committee and represent the entire student body to school committee and are expected to decide on issues with the best interest of all students in mind. SAC serves as the primary communicator between the students and the school committee.

The National Forensic League is a club made up by students interested in public speaking. These students compete in a variety of events including declaration, original oration, play reading and radio broadcast. Their meets often cause them to leave at 6 o'clock in the morning. That's dedication!

These are students with direction. The three clubs Jobs for Bay State Graduates, Shomty, and Junior Achievement are all clubs that involve business. Shomty is headed by Mrs. Gustafson of the business department. Students in Shomty work on all kinds of business skills. Shomty's next activity will be a type-a-thon to support the National Lukemia Foundation.

For years, Shrewsbury High School's students have been involved with the fun yet educational J. A. programs which include Business Basics, Applied Economics and the J.A. night program. In the night program high school students have the opportunity to form and run their own company. J.A. provides an introduction to the complex world of marketing, finance, production and personnel management. J.A. does not take place in a classroom; rather it takes place in an atmosphere that focuses on social interactions and enjoyment.

Junior achievement also sponsors a number of conferences. In the summer the International Student Forum takes place at Indiana University for a week of energy and excitement. Unlike many conferences it's main objective is to ensure that a good time is had by all. There are nightly dances and a formal at the end of the week, plus many other group activities.

Jobs for Bay State Graduates is all about taking on the world outside. The group holds resume and leadership days where they learn valuable skills necessary to obtain employment. Working together and valuing other's opinions is stressed in this organization.

"I don't know!" "What in the world is this?" "Guess!" "Hurry!" "Put down anything!" Where do you think you can hear such things? If you guessed the math team, you've got it! Math team members say these things constantly. These words, as well as hard work, is the key to their success.

The varsity math team is led by Mrs. Kupzinkas. There are four meets throughout the school year. Students from all over the Worcester County compete in three ten-minute rounds of three questions each, and then a twenty minute team-round with about ten questions.

The Science Club is open to all students in grades 8-12. Every month the members of the club and the club adviser, Mrs. Schroeder, go to another high school to compete in different events. The members work very hard on building their projects. The competition involves the judging of their projects. There is also a State Olympiad held at Boston University where members spend the entire day at competing in over twenty different events. They have done an exceptionally well competing in the bio-process event. The Science Club has done an excellent job in competition.

What To Do...

Students at SHS have a number of options to choose from when it comes to how they spend their time. Members of these four clubs all devote a great deal of time to their clubs, and have fun participating in them.

Have you ever received an overdue book slip? Well, you can thank the members of the 020 Library Club. The members of the 020 Library Club spend their free periods of the day helping Mrs. Costello, our head librarian. These students keep our media center organized. They check out books to students, put books away, and mend our old books. Attention all delinquents! For those of you who may have forged a pass, members of the 020 Library Club are also responsible for having the passes checked by teachers.

Members of the Chess Club meet once a week during activity period with their adviser Mr. Secino. In past years, Mr. Secino has challenged members of this club to play against him. The amazing aspect of this is that Mr. Secino is able to play more than one game at a time- blindfolded. The members of this club find enjoyment in challenging their minds with complex strategies.

The Lettermen's Club is comprised of all athletes who have earned a varsity letter. Athletes of this club are also recognized at their individual sports nights. A new aspect this year is the Booster Club, where parents and athletes work

AAAAAAH! CRASH! We hope that these are not the sounds that come from the members of the Ski Club. Every Wednesday for approximately six weeks, students ski at Mt. Wachusett in Princeton, MA. In the winter, a few day trips and an overnight trip are available to members. A few teachers who supervise the students are Mrs.

Krause, Mrs. Holley, and Mr. Rose. There are also many students from the high school that teach at Ward Hill. These students are expert skiers and give lessons to people of all ages. The instructors enjoy themselves skiing and even get to take home a check. So, go on down to Ward Hill and get yourself a lesson from one of your peers!

The "Who? What? When? Where? and Why?" of SHS are answered both monthly and yearly in the Town Crier newspaper and the Colonial yearbook. The staff of the Town Crier is composed of journalism students instructed by John Tsombakos. This year some lively topics which appeared in this publication dealt with senior writeups, Spag's proposal, and the "holidays in schools" issue. The Colonial attempts to cover special events which the current senior class have enjoyed over their five years, as well as present a history of the present year. Unlike the newspaper, the staff of the Colonial must apply for editorships or committee work. Staff members do all their work after school hours attempting to meet a series of six major deadlines.

A third publication- a journal of creative and original prose, poetry, and art- is published quarterly by the staff of The Excelsior. Staff members read and select submissions by other students, the creative writing class, and often submit entries of their own.

Love in the Ninties

Susie, I've thought about this for a long time now, and I think we're ready. I think that we're both mature enough to accept the responsibility of marriage, and I know that I for one am prepared for the commitment involved. I give you this ring in the hopes that you feel the same way. I understand that our parents may object to our love at such a seemingly young age, but my love extends beyond years and grows stronger every second that I spend with you. Please Susie, be my wife.

Susie giggled, and tossed her five-year-old curls from side to side.

No Billy, I can't marry you. My heart belongs to another man. I've been secretly engaged to Roger for over two years, and I love him too much to hurt him. My feelings for you are deep as well Billy, but as they say, Roger got there first. Finders keepers, losers weepers.

Billy lowered his eyes in silent disbelief.

Must you twist that holy proverb against me at such a bitter moment, Susie? My heart lies shattered in your hands, yet you taunt me with your rhetoric. Perhaps my feelings towards you were ill conceived. I love you Susie, but I cannot bear to see you with another man.

With that, Billy lifted a handful of sand and flung it into young Susie's pretty face. He ambled out of the sandbox, and wandered over to the swings, where he hoped to propose to Wendy, the girl of his dreams.

Depths

In a moment of contact purely in chance,
He let his eyes down,
And I let mine rise;
I submerged myself into
His opalescent waters
In the many shades of a blue night.
And the beacon of outside light
Was only a pale translucent moon.
Yet while I dove deeper,
In search of fulfillment,
He only waded through my misty pools
Of green-blue crystal,
Unsure of going deeper.
He would lose his chance if he didn't hurry
For I was already pulling myself reluctantly away from his soul.
I must admit I was afraid
I'd want to stay there.
Just as he quickly went to find
The buried treasure in my eyes,
I pulled out with a cry of desire.

I think he lightly touched my arm,
When we finally passed,
Just two unknowns
In a world of uncertainty.

---Renee Arnold

Egos

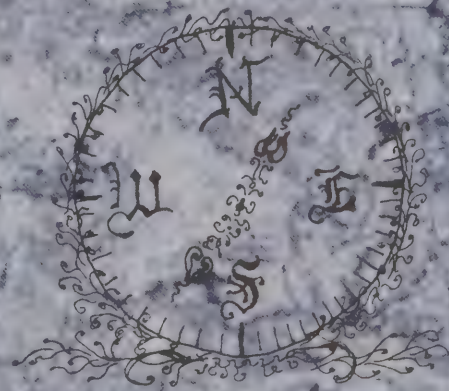

Keep your chin up and smile
No matter what the problem may be
You are always better than any problem may seem Faith within oneself, when lost, is the only problem worth solving
Everything else can be resolved

Confidence has to be gained
Egos are earned
Excel at what you do
Don't let what you do excel within you
Egos can ruin lives
Confidence can save them.

HARMONY

What Did We Sound Like?

The Shrewsbury High School Music Department has been making beautiful music for years, and many of the upperclassmen, who now make up the heart of the performing music groups, have been dedicated to music for many of those years. Some have participated in musical theater since third grade, and some have played an instrument since grammar school. This page is dedicated to the past years of service given by SHS music students.

"Pride and spirit kept us going inspite of injuries to key players."

At the start of the season the Colonials, now under the direction of new head coach Tim Hickey, looked ready to contend with the best that the Mid-Wach had to offer.

An impressive win over South High in the season opener delighted the Shrewsbury faithful. Unfortunately, the rest of the season didn't go quite as smoothly. Injuries to almost all of the seniors kept the Colonials off track.

Inspired by captains Jim Henrickson, Tyge Woodall, and Erik Liljegren, the team continued to put forth a great effort. The feeling on the team was that they may have lost some games but they were never beaten. It was this kind of dedication and enthusiasm that helped everyone suit up each day to practice hard and then play even harder come game time.

The Shrewsbury offense was run by field general Dave Young. Young's two biggest weapons were halfbacks Jim Henrickson and Tyge Woodall. Henrickson and Woodall found gaping holes opened by the strong offensive line which was anchored by seniors Nader Bitar, Erik Liljegren, and Andy Weagle. The defense was led by senior linebackers Weagle and Liljegren with Ryan Toth coming in to play solid defense when the team needed a lift.

Finishing their season with a 3-8 record, the '92 varsity will remember it not only as a time of frustration but also as one of enormous pride.

Outstanding leadership and comraderie MAKE A GREAT SEASON

The Shrewsbury girls played well and hard to close their season with a 7-6-5 record. This year was, by far, the best they've had in quite some time. This can be attributed to the outstanding leadership and camaraderie on the field.

The varsity team was composed of twelve seniors, most of them having played together for four years. The experience gained from playing with one another paid off and that, together with the captaining of Beth Majewski, made their season a success. Although everyone worked well as a team there were standouts. Liz Carlstrom was a skillful and talented wing.

Her efforts in bringing the ball up the field led to the outstanding goal scoring efforts of both Michelle Santora and Heather Schofield. The defensive end was strong in all respects. Halfbacks Beth Majewski, Sarah Catlin, and Becky Mayrand fought to keep the ball up the field and when the ball got by them, sweeper Kadia Welch and sophomore goalie Liz Miller were there to stop it. Although the team is graduating twelve of its seniors, they will still have the talents of Meg Driscoll, Nancy Dennis, Meg Krause, Rachel Todd, and the upcoming players to help them to future winning seasons.

SENIORS VICTORIOUS

After losing badly at the Powderpuff Football tournament as juniors, this year's seniors were determined to win "bigtime" over the Class of '93. Despite a small turnout of participants, and a sizeable height disadvantage, the senior girls pulled together and dominated both ends of the field.

Juniors Elinor Fukuda and Lindsay Drab take their warm-ups before the big game

Ready, Set, Hike !

The great running of Angie Orizzi and Liz Carlstrom, together with the ferocious defense led by Stephanie Premo, Jen Chu, and Jill Zalieckas, completely shut down the junior offense, in spite of powerful running by Andrea Figueras, Erin Alarie, and Liz Senosk. Although the seniors only scored on a safety, they dominated most of the game offensively. The defense for both teams accounted for the low score of 2-0. This year's game was extremely physical, and Monday morning November 4th gave testimony to this fact, as both the juniors and seniors complained of aches and pains that were non-existent November 2nd.

GIRLS POST 8-1 RECORD

SCOREBOARD

Finishing their dual meet season with a 7-1 record, the girls' cross country team experienced several major highlights. They took a second place finish in both the Nashoba Invitational and in the Districts at Gardner Municipal Golf Course; however, the major thrill of their season was that in both of these races they beat their long time rivals - Fitchburg. The Grochowalski sisters, Jen and Johanna, provided each other with competition, usually finishing 1st and 2nd. Captain Grochowalski stated that "With such a large team, it was sometimes hard to pull together, but the girls did a great job, and we had a successful season to prove it."

"Go-get-'em" attitude enables girls' varsity to post A WINNING SEASON

Predominantly a young team, the girls turned heads when they took to the soccer field. With only five seniors, Sarah Head, Angie Orizzi, Sara Borgeson, Shelley Capurso, and Jeanine Merchant the girls made it to the Division 1 Quarterfinals: a mind-boggling achievement because of the team's youth. The team was characterized by Coach Rich Wackell by their "Go-get-'em attitude," the result of "first class firepower and aggressive offense."

The last three games solidified the varsity team's district entry. A victory over Westford made them a step closer, and the girls needed only a tie against Holy Name to qualify. Shrewsbury put up a courageous effort, but lost by a score of 2-1. Nevertheless, one game was left against a lower-ranked Milford. The varsity, not wanting to see their season end, put Milford away.

The preliminary district game was against lower-seeded Burncoat and the girls won, 4-1. The next round was the quarterfinals opposite Nashoba, who held a record of 15-2-1. The girls showed great heart, however, the Chieftains came out the victors, winning 4-1. The girls finished their season with a powerful record of 12-7-1.

Leading league scorer was sophomore, Tara Largess, with 12 goals, nine assists -- 21 total points. Right behind her, in the third and fourth positions, were sophomore Shelley Christie and senior Jeanine Merchant.

According to captain Sarah Head, "We definitely surprised a lot of people by qualifying for the District Tournament. We knew we were a young team but we also knew that we had a great amount of talent, and in the long run that paid off."

"Coach, have we reached our peak yet?"

The young Colonial team evidenced promise this year when they opened up their season with a tie against Holy Name, and as the season progressed their teamwork paid off with upset victories over Leominster, Milford, Fitchburg, and North Middlesex. Tying St. John's and Marlboro were major accomplishments, but their final win over Holy Name (1-0) capped the season.

"Coach, have we reached our peak yet?" This question was directed at Bill Manzello at the end of every game, whether the they won, lost, or tied. Even if this peak was never reached, the boys' soccer team's record, 8-7-4, spoke for itself after the two previous seasons' records of 1-16-1 and 5-11-1. Sadly, this year's effort wasn't good enough. They missed the Districts by two points.

Taner Kanlier led the team and the Mid-Wach League in scoring with sixteen goals and five assists. Standout halfbacks were Capt. Brian Christie, Mark Kapusta, and Peter Agbay. The fullback line was held together by the superb play of Capt. Kevin Coleman and Peter Nolle, Todd Boulay, and Kevin Reagey. First year goal tender, Neil Belanger frustrated a great many teams by refusing them access to the net.

SPIRIT ABOUNDS

The 1991 Homecoming-Spirit Week activities began on Wednesday October 2nd with a hall decorating contest between the classes. Thursday saw most of us wearing our favorite chapeaux for Hat Day. Spirit was high on Friday, Color Day, as we prepared for the afternoon. Field Day commenced when we were dismissed from classes after lunch and sent to the football field. Once we arrived, the activities began. There was even music provided by the Marching Band. Once the activities got under way the Juniors displayed their aggressiveness and competitiveness, and they rightfully took first place honors. The Sophomores came in second, the Seniors third, the Freshman fourth, and the eighth graders fifth. Some activities included a wheelbarrow race, three-legged race, and tug-of-war.

"It is always a great opportunity to see competition within the school," said Mr. Kenneth Largess.

Cheerleaders Inspire SHS Athletes By Lighting The Fire...

The 1991-92 cheerleading squad, led by their new coach, Linda O'Connor, was set and ready to go. On the cold fall nights the cheerleaders warmed up the crowd by igniting the football team to hot plays and a winning spirit. When the football season ended, the tournament and basketball season were soon to begin.

The basketball games gave the squad an opportunity to show off difficult stunts. The tournament team led by the six veteran seniors, Erin Mulcunry, Alison Hochstein, Karli Milott, Liz Moreland, Barbara Canzano, and Jen Casey had on goal, to regain the Mid-Wach title. The squad had the spirit to maintain the high standards the squad had set in previous years.

The highlight of last year's tournament season was placing first in the Lowell Catholic Tournament and placing second in the Mid-Wach League.

Team Unity and Leadership

Provide a Winning Season

This year's varsity team consisted of several strong veterans pulling together with their younger teammates aiming for a winning season. And a winning season it was!

The one game best remembered by the team was the thrilling victory over Fitchburg. Everything seemed to just "click" for the team. Jill Zalieckas and Sarah Head were able to feed both Lindsay Drab and Stacey Milley with perfect passes down low throughout the entire game. Milley and Drab combined for 28 rebounds and 59 points. Tara Largess and Katie Pratt played solid defense when called upon to do their jobs. This game perhaps best exemplified what the 91-92 Colonial girls' team was all about. Everyone doing their job 100% made for a successful team whether a win or a loss was put up on the scoreboard.

The girls went on to District post-season play and defeated Marlboro in the first round, only to lose to Wachusett in the quarter finals.

Despite Several Upsetting Defeats, Colonial Spirit Stays High

In spite of their losing record, the Colonial boys gave every game their best effort. No matter what people said about their abilities, they always put up a good fight against the opposing team.

With senior guards Ken Largess and Taner Kanlier putting up big numbers for the team they were able to hold their own throughout the majority of the season. Tom Allen and Andy Weagle proved their worth to the team by taking action and control off the boards. Seniors Matt Hayden and Erik Liljegren provided strong leadership and dedication along with Jim Henrickson who took his leadership to the court when setting up the offensive plays.

This team is one that benefitted from the All-Team Qualifying District Playoffs. They entered the tournament with high hopes of upsetting many of the big teams of the highly competitive Mid-Wach League, and the team is sure that their losses this year will be avenged in the 1992-1993 season.

League Meet	4th

With an Impressive 11-1 record

Gymnasts are Champs

The Shrewsbury High Girl's Gymnastics Team vaulted and tumbled its way to another title! The Colonials capped off their 11-1 season with a win over Algonquin Regional that crowned them League Champs, and earned them a spot in the North Sectionals. Plagued with injuries, the team often relied on the eighth grade members for base scores.

Perhaps the most exciting meet of the season was an away meet against Algonquin. Shrewsbury led after the first event, but Algonquin rallied, and the outcome of the meet was determined by the last floor exercise routine. Algonquin came up short, and Shrewsbury won a tough meet by a mere two-tenths of a point.

The Colonials continued to breeze by their competition until they met Wachusett Regional. With Richelle D'Elia and Nikki DeFosse out, the Colonials fell behind after two events. Never giving up, the girls still could not catch their opposition and lost their first league meet in three years. With the encouragement of Head Coach Dorothy Niechwadowicz-Walsh and Assistant Coach Vivian Siddell, the Colonials were able to regain their confidence and composure and set their sights on the the State Championships.

In Spite of Tough Opposition

Colonials Fight Fairly

This year's Ice Hockey team came across many challenges in the league. Strong players for the team were Captains Dave Lemay, Jon Rischitelli, Brian Murphrey, and Brian Horne. These players also provided strong leadership and experience to this fighting team. No matter who their opposition was, they continuously put up a strong fight to the finish.

Although this year's team will be losing a lot of its strong leadership and experienced players to college, there are many young team members who are willing to uphold the strength of the team's unity.

Girls Win State Championship

The Girls' Track team proves to be untouchable once again. With strong veterans to lead the team, the girls went on to capture another Class B State Championship. Sisters Jen and Jo Grochowalski were outstanding in the distance races while Andrea Fiske, Andrea Figueras, and many other talented athletes did their jobs to carry the team to yet another successful season.

Even though the team is losing many strong seniors this year, there are many promising underclassmen who will continue to prove their worth to the team.

Contributions From Everyone Lead To A Great Season

The Boys' Indoor Track Team finished their season by placing 2nd in their District Meet. The team was captained by Tyge Woodall and Kevin Mailman. In the District Meet Kevin took top honors by winning the 300. Placing 2nd in the meet was the 4 x 440 relay team made up of Tyge Woodall, Dave Shaidnagle, Fred Shaidnagle, and Kevin Mailman. Tyge Woodall took 3rd place in the high jump as did the 4 x 880 relay team of Ed Gardner, Tom Baumann, Bill Lepiesza, and Joel Johnson. Dave Shaidnagle gave a strong performance in the hurdles coming in third. Their overall league record was 6-3 finishing in third place behind Fitchburg and Wachusett. The boys worked hard under the supervision of Mr. Nick DiPilato, Miss Marshall, and Mr. Smith. The result was one of the best seasons the team has had in several years.

We remember when you were our “Little Boy.” An extension of our very being . . . Born under 5 pounds and seven weeks early, our every waking moment belonged to you.

One night, when we called you to supper, you came to the table all grown up . . . Where did all the in-between go?

Too soon we were to let go.

Now we should always call you “Our Son” . . . But in our hearts you’ll always be . . . Our Little Boy . . .

Years we watched you grow so high

We have journeyed through a year of Shrewsbury High School's history. With the past behind us, we stride into the unknown. Our destiny is uncertain and our search has only just begun. As our world expands and changes, new issues face each of us. Hopefully, we will have the strength to confront the challenges that lie in the road ahead. May each of us follow the path and find its hidden treasures. May we all discover what it is we are in search of....

Last Will and Testament of The Class

I, David Ambach, leave John B the fake ID he never got, and Kam C no one to argue with at work.

I, Nicole Baker leave Shawna Coons the wonderful musical rehearsals, and Mr. Feldheimer 3 reserved seats dedicated to the "trio".

I, Doug Barents, leave my sister Steph lost to roam the corridors at SHS.

I, Michael Bell, leave Kyle 4 more years of school and skating Shrewsbury.

I, John Bergeron, leave Mrs. Meyers some free time between saving me and the next overachiever - on-the-fritz, a tower of juice bottles in locker #667, and with full knowledge of what I don't want in life.

I, Robert Paul Malcolm Bernier, Jr., leave James Rainwater and Jeff Zalieckas red bowties and bluecheese.

I, Nader M. Bitar, leave all of my cars to Dave Young, and my football abilities to Brian Webber and Greg Griffen: Good Luck.

I, Mark Blazejewski, leave my area for callies in the boathouse to Todd Cummings.

I, Todd Boulay, leave all the skid signs in Shrewsbury and any other town to Mike Riley and Mark Warren.

I, Kimberly Boule, leave my sister, Kristin, at SHS, to stay out of trouble long enough to graduate.

I, Sara Borjeson, leave Jenn Farrell the front seat in Budha, too bad it's no longer an option.

I, Sarah Boylan, leave Catherine Brunell the pleasure of homeroom.

I, Kristen Briggs, leave Liz Senosk, Timarie Micket, and Jen Ludivico the cross country team and the search to anyone who can finish it.

I, Barbara Canzano, leave my footprints in the sand.

I, Kam Lee Capoccia, leave behind Ron, Jay, Shawn, Ryan, Pete, Kayne, Matt, Keith, Tyge, and Nader so I can start a new collection.

I, Shelley Capurso, unfortunately leave my brother Derek my poor, unprotected Jeep for the duration of 1 year and my studio keys.

I, Liz Carlstrom, leave Mandy a box of Glad trashbags, Dave a pinball machine, and Snyds to find a big lightening bug.

I, Jennifer L. Casey, leave my brother Justin 3 more years at SHS and David a strawberry shortcake.

I, Sarah Catlin, leave Meghann 4 more wonderful years at SHS, Richelle D'Elia all the self confidence in the world, and Driscoll one more year of Field Hockey.

I, Brian Christie, leave Shrewsbury High for my sisters Shelley to graduate in 1994, Tricia in 2009 and myself to follow my dreams!

I, Jennifer Chu, leave Hsu & Wu "hei mao," Gorman & Odd 4 counts, Jessie & Sameer the cocoa making Coleman, Ghize & Wuba Ralphie, and my LOVER.

I, Kevin Coleman, leave James Rainwater and Jeff Zalieckas bright red bowties, blue cheese, and Mike and Al our table.

I, Kristina Collaro, leave Edward Tai to forge a marriage certificate so we can room together at UMASS.

I, Matthew Corey, leave nothing because I can't think of anything.

I, Amy Beth Cote, leave Jenna to follow her sweet emotion in the midget truck and Melanie Miett all my dance shoes.

I, Kevin Cox, leave #13 to a new no name, my inprint in stone and a locker someone will remember me by.

I, Chris Crockett, leave my acidic wood stove and lots of forgotten memories to Ed.

I, Michelle Ann Dalton, leave "American Pie" to Kerry, Catherine, and Beth, $.32 gas money to Mark, the team to Rishie and Smiles, and the search to Kristen in college and to anyone who can pursue it here.

I, Tom Damico, leave good luck and my Physics labs to my sister Karen, and five Band programs to Louis.

I, Pete Degraff, leave feeling glad that nobody can revoke my diploma, and glad that I never have to do this again.

I, Kelley Desroches, leave my brother Keith, five long years of high school at Shrewsbury High.

I, Kelly DiLeo, leave Joey 2 more years at SHS and the hope that he doesn't inherit any of my driving skills.

I, Matthew Dow, leave two more fun filled years of the cafeteria food and Mr. Kirks's math classes to my sister Nicole.

I, Todd Drog, leave moon beams, Amnesty International, Parachuting nuns, "cassidy", cows, Gouda Cheese, and invisible rainbows to the "other one's".

I, Julie Durbano, leave my nice white cheerleading skirt to Wendy Anderson and all Physics papers for the recycling plant!

I, Shelley Durocher, leave a class I never knew to one more year of torture.

I, Jamie Duquette leave a cloud of smoke.

I, Dan Emerson, leave the membership of the turtles open to any underclassmen who can live up to it's requirements.

I, Caren Fisher, leave Amy to find someone else to drive her everywhere and Roya all my symphies of being the oldest.

I, Andrea Fiske, leave Andrea Figueras the power of the name.

I, Michael Flynn, leave.

I, Renee Gaffney, leave SHS my wonderful attitude!

I, Colleen Gagnon, leave Jess my copy of the Breakfast Club, Charis, a chain, and Kris, a seatbelt.

I, Dulcie S. Garvey, leave without a moment's hesitation.

I, Keith Gay, leave Jen Morris with the strength and ability she deserves to continue with school and her friends, take care of you.

I, Michelle Goodwin, leave as did Mike, Ken, and Chris. Bye Bye.

I, Krista Green, leave Jaime my ripple tank labs and all the fun she can handle for four more years at SHS.

I, Shannon Green, leave Matt my flower jeans, Dan a promise of more memories, and Sean best wishes to succeed.

I, Rachel Greenberg, leave my corner in Lou's care until someone worthy enough comes along to carry on the tradition.

I, Joseph Grillo, leave because life has to be more interesting.

I, Jen Grochowalski, leave Amy my "spring leggs," Johanna the nickname "Groch," and to the spring track team the Jan Grochowalski stretch.

I, Kate Hale, leave Emily Shartin with Golden Rectangles of Orchestra.

I, Timothy Hawkes, leave a giant block of creamy white fudge hidden somewhere in the school for some lucky underclassmen to stumble upon when they least expect it.

I, Jayson Hawley, leave all my used computer disks to all the 8th graders and my locker to Mary, may you have a year with one alone.

I, Matthew Beak Hayden, leave a Spanish Honors Student.

I, Sarah Head, leave Lindsay Drab my extra large shorts and three more fun filled seasons.

I, Kelly Henderson, leave Skidmarks!

I, Jim Henrickson, leave #42 to Sean Lawlor and Robyn to nobody.

I, Susan Hester, leave Kelly Horne the best years at SHS.

I, Alison Hochstein, leave my brother, Matthew "Bucky" Hochstein, to dominate the SHS basketball court and to my other Matthew my friendship always.

I, Brandon Hollyer, leave SHS with the secure knowledge that I tried, straight and alert.

I, Brian Horne, leave Chucky B. the right to bother someone in the corners and Jared two more years in this great...hole!

I, Wayne Humphrey, leave Shawn my poster collection.

I, Erica Johnson, leave Carrie for two more years of torture at SHS.

I, Stacy M. Joslyn leave Shrewsbury High School, Monte a big kiss, Dave his phone, and Steve wondering how I made it...

I, Scott Joubert, leave my driving record to whomever wants it, so I can get rid of it; my luck with friends, and my girlfriend since I'm not going to be here anymore.

I, Taner Kanlier, leave my brother Tanzer long days and nights playing ball at the park.

I, Nafees Khan, leave this school with the tears of happiness, and the tears of sadness I leave behind.

I, Susan Marie Kilroy, leave North Street to someone who will use it wisely and Tim ten more fulfilling years of school.

I, Mark Kapusta, leave Hyper as ever.

I, Matthew Labbe, leave my sister Hen, a good pair of walking shoes, and the sole possession of the name...LABBE.

I, Kristen LaFlamme, leave my band duties to ANYONE, my flag for future "Goose Patrol," my bio-class "Twinkle Toes," and the faculty two more LaFlamme's.

I, Kenny Largess, leave Erin Mulcunry the $400 the I owe her because of bets, and Tara and Erin the Star of the Week.

I, Jennifer Lawrence, leave SHS to finally enjoy life without it.

I, David Lemay, leave nothing to nobody.

I, Matthew Leonard, leave my jav to Mr. Munzer, my brother Luke for 3 more years and fantasy to those who chose to imagine it.

I, John Trump Liang, leave my cello to anyone who has a yearning for it, my wisdom to future extempers, and my middle name to an admirer in NHS.

I, Bonnalee R. Libbey, leave Jaunita Farrell a blue dress to go with her brother and a cow to have tea with.

I, Erik Liljegen, leave a bottle of Pepto to coach McGinley.

I, Ian Liston, leave my love and thanks to Seth and Rebecca and my first book to Keith Gay.

I, Patrice Lorusso, leave "Inside Outside," one of my creations that is very dear to me, to the school; in hope that art will touch everyone at some point in time.

I, Shaye Lorusso, leave nothing! Because everyone else took it All!

I, Kevin Mailman, leave Dave Young our experiences to be carried on and the "minuteman" nickname to football junior losers on J.V.

of 1992

I, Beth Majewski, leave Meghan Driscoll many more fun-filled Cranberry festival weekends and one more season without me.

I, Murtaza Camel Mandle, hereby leave my will to evil Bill, bottle of scoop, Zeppelin bar tapes to Goldilox, Dealer plate to Joe, Floyd tapes to Jay, the Almighty Barry Sax and Reeds, my Q-tip to coming freshman, matches to John and my lasting love to B,J,C,L,H,K,K.

I, Andrea Marc-Aurele, leave behind my cousin Spook.

I, Amy Martocchio, leave Lisa and Kristina to continue the infinite manhunt.

I, Tracy Maynard, leave SHS to wonder if Jamie Duquette and I will ever go out, and nobody to locker #626.

I, Becky Mayrand, leave the field hockey team two Peter Pan clicks before each game for good luck, and my name Bodacious to no one.

I, Katie McCarthy, leave my brother Mike a wish that he has Mrs. Mongiat for Algebra II, and the X-Country team good luck for running up Spring St.

I, Dan McClure, leave Dan's Burly Pub and Locker to whoever will occupy #660.

I, Mike McDonald, leave many friends and memories, and one camouflage bush hat in care of the Crew Team.

I, Ed McNamara leave .

I, Jeanine Merchant, leave all my friends the great memories we've had and good luck to the upcoming soccer team.

I, Stacey J. Milley, leave Dan O'Brien a new mailbox and Kate Majewski a big hug!

I, Karli Milott, leave Liz Moreland arm hair bleach, Erin Mulcunry dust booties, and Meghan Moriarty a secret.

I, Joe Milosz, leave my parking spot, my marks in the parking lot, and most of all I leave my sister two more wonderful years at SHS.

I, Elizabeth Moreland, leave Karli Milott a bottle of arm hair remover & book of cheers so she can finally learn them, and Jill Drelinger doing the SH cheer by herself.

I, Erin Mulcunry, leave to find the perfect color crayon, the best of luck to my brother Ryan, and Kenny Largess on top of Chapel Hill.

I, Brian Murphrey, leave school, and Chukie the Putts, B's, so he can take a hit in the corners.

I, Randy Nanigan, leave enriched, educated, and matured -Not!

I, Jeannine Nault, leave behind my stress, frustration, tension, pressure, etc...

I, Van Nguyen, leave more confused then when I first started!

I, Peter Nolle, leave Jennifer at SHS for 3 more years and Ryan Foster my #15.

I, Hayley Notley, leave Nicky and Janine seven years of living hell.

I, Dan O'Brien, leave SHS knowing that tennis is a real sport unlike crew.

I, A. Erin O'Brien, leave Kelly Henderson a top to her Mustang convertible that works to further avoid getting caught in torrential downpours.

I, Angelina Orrizzi, leave Ms. Dolan still calling me fondly "a jerk", Dr. Mills laughing at me in the halls, and Timarie all the luck in the world and still wondering why I do the things I do.

I, Charissa Ondovic, leave my 3 best friends one more "guy story", Jonathan a pack of Freshmint and a small part of my heart, and Jeff to keep his small room.

I, Laurie Palumbo, leave my brothers Brendan & Joseph 5 "Fun-Filled" years at SHS and my sense of humor because they'll need it.

I, Nicole Panagiotopolous, leave Shrewsbury High to all my friends.

I, Gopi Patel, leave my many nicknames from SHS, to find many more in the future.

I, Kristin Anne Paquette, leave my brother Edmund 3 more years at SHS, a paintbrush, and d"fun" at the corn stand.

I, Jessica Pedone, leave this boredom to find some thing grand.

I, Laurie Peris, leave Danielle all my ex-boyfriends and the thrill of finding out what all guys are like.

I, Jenna Leigh Piskadlo, leave Andrea hurdling in the hallways, Tricia sitting in pools of sunlight, and Marcie very, very quietly while she's hunting wabbits.

I, Jennifer Prachniak, leave Shrewsbury High School to my friends Anthony, Sharon, Darlene, Shannon, and Nelly. Good luck in the future Meg.

I, Josh Pratt, leave Katie my place in Northboro to keep sacred as I have through the years.

I, Stephanie Premo, leave my locker full of gum to anyone who can stand the smell of wintergreen and watermelon.

I, Michelle Puize, leave the halls of Shrewsbury High School to Alaina and Kaitlyn in the year 2002.

I, Niles Reshamwala, leave the name "Nilsh" to the next fourth period freshman study in Room 234.

I, John Riopel, leave all my blue slips to Monte to fill up his office.

I, Jonathan Rischitelli, leave Nicole Roy my phone number 757-8716.

I, Nicole Marie Roy, leave Jason Dionne one more year in French 5 with Mr. Gacron.

I, Tami Rubenstein, leave Ashby a box of dog treats to eat to his heart's content.

I, Bill Ryzewski, leave behind broken drumsticks, drumheads, my custom lockers, rubber in the parking lot, Kirk camp, a tennisball for Bethy, and my aura for Joey and Matty.

I, Jeff Samanen, leave my desire and thirst for knowledge, love, and the marrow of life still unquenched.

I, Dave Samara, leave not knowing where to go and Fleet, Liz, DY and especially Amanda, something.

I, Michelle Santora, leave Meg Driscoll a fun-filled field hockey season with Jessica and my engraved locker to absolutely no one.

I, Heather Saunders, leave SHS as a true blue Freedom Rocker in hope that this will help me somehow in my later life.

I, Heather Schofield, leave the job of "don't be" on the field hockey team to whoever wants it, and Bridget Richardson alone on the loser court forever.

I, Kerrie L. Scholfield, leave my little brother, Brian my bad reputation, Steven Gaffney to find a girl as great as his brother did and just one step ahead of Mrs. Holland.

I, Leann Schonborg, leave SHS with many great memories, Kerry & Catherine one more musical, Matt Travato Fruity Pebbles & Joe Azzarone to bother whoever he wants!

I, Shawn Senior, leave Lynn, Jen, Beth, Cheryl, and Liz two more wonderful years of SHS.

I, Heather A. Shelby, leave my cousin Erin Hunt three more years at SHS.

I, Steve Sisak, leave Mr. Zona my curly locks, Kev my Sisak Flash, Joe my excuses and Frank everything else I own.

I, Heather Snyder, leave my sister Mandy my Zephyr and Marcie Maurello a quarter holder.

I, Allison Sposato, leave Mrs. Peterson to pick up the attendance everyday.

I, Edward Tai, leave the hat to Mich Simone in hopes that one day she will be worthy enough to wear it, and my sister Melissa 3 years to live up to my name.

I, Perry Tancredi, leave my brain trailing on in bits and pieces as I slowly lost it throughout the year.

I, Ryan Toth, leave Greg Griffin the immortal words to live by-"The secret of happiness is not in doing what one likes but in liking what one has to do."

I, Robyn L. Towner, leave "our lockers," lunch by the windows, breakfast feasts in the cafe, my brother Adam and the Class of 1999 tons of Luck, and last, but not least, Joe Azzarone...Thank God!

I, Linda Turo, leave Renee Gaffney a lifetime of searching for the "perfect" screwball, and Patrice Lorusso the hope that Boston isn't too far of a commute.

I, Josh Vallee, leave quickly, before they can catch me. I also leave all worldly possessions to Tina, the flute.

I, Patty Vella, leave Lisa for bathroom duty, and Jon to no one!

I, Deborah Villa, leave Catherine Brunell one more year in band Q-tipping, Kerry Ghize to sing our special song one more time, and Joe Azzarone nothing, but he wanted his name in this!

I, Andrea Vincequere, leave another musical for Shawna, 3 more years for Jamie, and speeding tickets to Mark.

I, Jennifer Violette, leave Dave Curran 10 books of passes, because I owed them to him.

I, Katy Wade, leave these shiny hallways, that parking spot I have never had, and my aura to my baby sister, Carrie.

I, Jessica Watt, leave my three best friends rich men to mooch off for the rest of their lives, and Rahul frequent flyer passes and my heart.

I, Andrew Scott Weagle, leave Dave to deal with Hanson and Webber a year's supply of ice cubes.

I, Kadia Welch, leave room for my brother Dion's conceit, Liz Miller the stress of defense and Mindy Sherman the Alto section of concert choir.

I, Kate Wiegand, leave my sister, Kara, the 6 extra inches of my bigger room and Tracy a year supply of gas money.

I, Carra Wilkes, leave Mr. F. my three brothers for future musicals, my majorettes extra tinsel, and Minda a tree.

I, Tyge Woodall, leave DY my hogging pfs., Mr. Warren & "D" my world records, all my teachers the feeling they got the best of me, "not", and SHS my eternal spirit.

I, Paul Wysocan, leave lots 'o fun to my brother.

I, Melinda Wysocki, leave SHS in hopes of making a successful life.

I, Jenn Yablonski, leave Nancy to find a new bus buddy, Craig to find a new homeroom, and my ripple tank labs to my brother.

I, Darcie Yeagher, leave to smoke wherever and whenever I feel like it.

I, Jill Zalieckas, leave Stacey Milley a drivers manual, Lindsay & Sarah D. a bathroom of their very own for camp.

I, Paulina Zolotarevsky, leave Liz, Nikki, and "T" Arachnophobia and a fun-filled senior year.

I, Karen Zona, leave David, Andrew, and Charles Snowdon my laughter, my sarcasm and my love.

Colophon

The 1992 Shrewsbury High School COLONIAL was printed by Jostens Printing and Publishing of State College, PA. Our local representative was Dan Smith of Hopkinton, MA and our in-plant consultant was Linda Nolf. 600 copies of the 236 page volume were produced via offset lithography on 80# dull finish paper stock.

The book was produced almost entirely (with the exception of the advertising section) using "desktop publishing". Macintosh computers were utilized in conjunction with Aldus PageMaker and Jostens Yeartech software. Body copy and picture captions were predominantly Palatino typeface; headlines were set in various typestyles.

The concept of the cover was originated by the Colonial staff with the assistance of Jostens' designer Rick Brooks, and assembled by Jostens' Creative Services Department. The theme logotype "In Search Of..." was designed by the 1992 Colonial staff.

The endsheet stock is white, printed on the front sheet in black ink and PMS 287 blue ink, then die-cut on the edge to achieve a ripple-cut effect. The back endsheet is printed in black ink and PMS 287 blue ink.

Twenty-three pages of the book were printed in process color; the divider pages were printed in black + PMS 287; the rest of the pages were printed in black and white.

"In Search Of..." was conceived by the 1992 yearbook staff, framed by Ian Liston, Editor-in-Chief and Krista Green, Design Editor, produced under the editorial and organizational direction of Adviser Beatrice Tosi, and financial direction of Margaret Bilodeau. Photography by Keegan and Grampietro Photography Studio were the official photographers for the Class of 1992. For more information please contact the Yearbook Office, Shrewsbury High School, Oak Street, Shrewsbury, MA 01545.

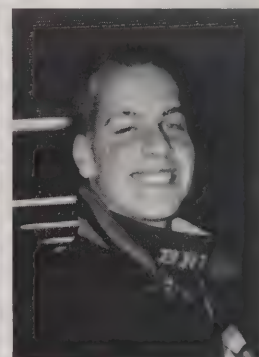

The 1991 Colonial received a First Place Award by the American Scholastic Press.
